This interactive and self-reflective session will overview various types of racism and define anti-racism. We will discuss common detours from antiracist behavior and outline the journey to becoming an antiracist. It will also cover how to engage in antiracist behavior and suggestions for dialogue. In addition, the presentation material will delve into what you know about race, spheres of influence, the role you can personally play, and how to be an ally with an action plan for anti-racism. A guide/workbook will be shared before the session.
